WHAT'S ON MEDIA GROUP COVID-19 STATEMENT

The last few days have seen unprecedented measures being taken by the government in a bid to curtail the spread of coronavirus (COVID-19).

Theatres, music venues, arts centres, museums, libraries, restaurants etc have all closed their doors to the general public for the time being.

Different venues are projecting different time scales for the closures, with further announcements being made daily. Some have announced that they're hoping to re-open at the end of April. At the time of its publication, all information contained within our April issue was correct to the best of our knowledge.

For the foreseeable future, we will use our social media channels to update our readers on further announcements, rescheduled dates and news of any forthcoming shows or events.

This is an extremely difficult time for everyone, including those working in the arts and event management, many of whom are self-employed. We're all in this together, and once this is over we hope we can once again come together to support the fantastic arts & entertainment offer that we have here in the UK.

In the meantime, physical and mental wellbeing takes top priority - so stay safe, be kind and keep your distance.

Best wishes from the What's On team x

New date for popular home renovating show

The National Homebuilding & Renovating Show, which, along with vast numbers of other events, has been postponed due to the coronavirus outbreak, has been rescheduled for July.

Commenting on the news, Nick Noble, commercial & events director for the show's organisers, Future plc, said: "We plan to hold the event in four months' time when we believe the situation in the UK will be much clearer and we can continue to maximise the opportunities and investment made by all our exhibitors. We would like to thank everyone for their support at this time and will continue to update the market over the next few weeks."

Classic Ibiza event raising funds at Weston Park

An event featuring some of dance music's most iconic tracks - performed live in the grounds of Weston Park - will this year lend its support to a local charity that helps Staffordshire children who have life-limiting illnesses.

Taking place on Saturday 18 July, Classic Ibiza will be raising funds for the Donna Louise Hospice For Children & Young People. For more information about the event and how you can contribute to raising cash for a good cause, visit classicibiza.co.uk

Snow White to visit Stafford this Christmas

Snow White And The Seven Dwarfs will be visiting Stafford Gatehouse Theatre this Christmas.

The venue's festive-season show will see the evil queen's stepdaughter hiding out in the woods with her vertically challenged pals from 11 December to 3 January. Prime Pantomimes, the dedicated panto production company presenting the show, promise an 'extravaganza' that's 'bursting at the seams with audience participation, lavish sets, spectacular choreography, and a host of groan-worthy jokes and routines'. Tickets for the show are now on sale at staffordgatehousetheatre.co.uk

Sir Matthew Bourne's Nutcracker! back in Brum

Star choreographer Matthew Bourne is bringing hit ballet Nutcracker! to Birmingham Hippodrome next year. Making a welcome return nine years after it last toured, the show stops off in the second city from Tuesday 9 to Saturday 13 February. Influenced by the lavish Hollywood musicals of the 1930s, Nutcracker! follows Clara's bittersweet journey to the candy kingdom of Sweetieland and features Tchaikovsky's critically acclaimed score. To book tickets, visit birminghamhippodrome.com

Comic Con rescheduled

MCM Comic Con Birmingham has been rescheduled due to the coronavirus outbreak. The show will now take place at the NEC across the weekend of 27 & 28 June.

A spokesperson for the event said: "To all our fans, your tickets will be valid for the new MCM Comic Con Birmingham dates and no further action is needed on your part. More information on our guest line-up in June will be communicated as soon as we have it."

A Beauty of a show for the festive season

A 'spectacular' retelling of Beauty And The Beast will take centre-stage at the New Vic Theatre in Newcastle-under-Lyme this Christmas. The venue's Artistic Director, Theresa Heskins, will return to the original version of the popular fairytale for her adaptation.

"Bringing new life to these classic stories is absolutely what we're about at the New Vic," says Theresa. "I enjoyed discovering the original version of Beauty And The Beast to create this new version for our in-the-round stage. It's a story about kindness, about love, about not judging people based on outward appearances - themes that feel apt for this time. And it's about magic, which is exciting to me as a director."

Beauty And The Beast runs from Saturday 21 November to Saturday 30 January.

Gareth Gates Footloose in Stoke-on-Trent!

Pop Idol star Gareth Gates will head the cast of Footloose The Musical when the hit show tours to the Regent Theatre, Stoke-on-Trent, from Monday 9 to Saturday 14 November. Commenting on taking the role of Willard in the show, Gareth said: "I was born in 1984, the year Footloose the movie was first released. I used to watch the film lots as a kid, not knowing that some years later I'd be playing the 'cowboy who can't dance' on stages up and down the country. I'm a terrible dancer, so it's pretty much a case of life imitating art!"

Shropshire's first ever dog park...

Shropshire's first ever indoor dog park has opened in the town of Whitchurch. The idea of The Dogz Squad is to allow dogs 'to exercise their brains and explore new things'. The business's Whitchurch-based owner, Rebecca, is qualified in pet first-aid and has a diploma in pet psychology. She keeps up to date with research regarding 'canine enrichment' and would like to help local dogs exercise beyond just running around a field. At the moment, The Dogz Squad takes place at Whitchurch Civic Centre Sports Hall on Fridays from 6pm to 7pm. The business is in the process of sorting other sessions. To find out more, visit thedogzsquad.com

Saturday Kitchen chef Glynn at Shrewsbury Food Festival

Celebrity chef Glynn Purnell will bring a taste of TV's Saturday Kitchen to Shrewsbury Food Festival when he headlines the annual event at the town's Quarry Park on 27 & 28 June. Glynn will be joined at the popular get-together by some of the West Midlands' best chefs and around 200 producers. Commenting on news of his involvement, Glynn said: "I worked in Shropshire for a brilliant spell when Hibiscus in Ludlow won two Michelin stars. It was a great time and I've always had a close association with the county. There are some brilliant producers, brilliant chefs and first-class restaurants, so I'm delighted to have been asked to headline the event."

Strictly Ballroom for Kevin Clifton

Former Strictly Come Dancing champion Kevin Clifton is to star in Baz Luhrmann's smash-hit production of Strictly Ballroom The Musical when it visits Wolverhampton Grand Theatre from Monday 5 to Saturday 10 October. After seven years on the hit BBC TV series, Kevin recently announced his departure from the show and is now looking forward to treading the boards in Strictly Ballroom. "When I was 10 years old, I first watched the movie that would become my favourite film of all time," says Kevin. "This is my dream role. Plus I get to work with Craig Revel Horwood again!" For more information, visit grandtheatre.co.uk

Sheridan Smith to star as Cilla Black

Bafta-winning TV star Sheridan Smith is to play the late Cilla Black when Cilla The Musical visits Birmingham's The Alexandra in the autumn. The Two Pints Of Lager And A Packet Of Crisps favourite first played the much-loved singer in a 2014 television miniseries. Cilla The Musical debuted in 2017 and comes complete with the singer's Swinging '60s hits, including Anyone Who Had A Heart, Alfie, Step Inside Love and Something Tells Me. The show stops off in Birmingham from Monday 2 to Saturday 7 November. Tickets can be purchased at atgtickets.com

From Soweto to Wolves

The Grammy award-winning Soweto Gospel Choir will make their Wolverhampton Grand Theatre debut on Sunday 25 October.

The world-renowned performers picked up the 2019 'best world music album' Grammy for their record, Freedom.

The choir's Wolverhampton stop-off will see them performing a rousing selection of songs celebrating the life of Nelson Mandela. Their programme will also feature a number of international gospel classics - including a spine-tingling take on Leonard Cohen's Hallelujah and an extraordinary rendition of Amazing Grace, which has been viewed more than 15 million times on YouTube. For more information about the concert and to book tickets, visit grandtheatre.co.uk

Safari Park begins work on new luxury lodges

West Midland Safari Park is upgrading its animal facilities and building on-site accommodation.

Eight luxury Safari Lodges will be integrated into newly updated habitats for the venue's African elephants and cheetahs, providing guests with up-close & personal overnight wildlife experiences.

Commenting on the project, the Safari Park's Accommodation & Venues Director, Chris Kelly, said: "Conservation is at the forefront of our minds when designing and building the lodges, so as part of this project, our net biodiversity gain will increase by 30%, creating more habitats such as woodlands and wildflower meadows, encouraging native wildlife."

Iconic show returns to the Midlands

Chichester Festival Theatre's Olivier Award-nominated production of 'Singin' In The Rain' will be, er, storming into Birmingham Hippodrome next year (Tuesday 6 - Saturday 10 April 2021). The hit show has so far played to more than 750,000 people and features classic songs including Make 'em Laugh, Good Morning, Moses Supposes and, of course, the iconic title track itself. For more information and to book tickets, visit birminghamhippodrome.com

Hedgehog rescue centre seeks funds

A volunteer-run Shropshire hedgehog rescue centre is looking to raise funds through the launch of its first calendar.

Pricklebums Hedgehog Rescue in Ludlow is planning to release a 2021 fundraising calendar featuring pictures and images of hedgehogs painted by local artists.

To help cover the costs of producing the calendar, the rescue centre is looking for sponsorship from local businesses. A spokesperson said: "We're hoping that local businesses might sponsor us to help cover some costs in exchange for advertising. We're hoping to get one company for each page."

Festival invites young folk to apply for funding

A trust that aims to support and help develop the careers of young folk performers is inviting applications for its 2020 round of funding.

Up to four awards of up to £1,000 each will be made to emerging musicians, dancers or singers by the Alan Surtees Trust, which was established in memory of the co-founder and director of Shrewsbury Folk Festival.

The closing date for applications is 30 April. Only successful candidates will be contacted and the recipients will be announced in June.

THE PATH TO REDEMPTION

Set against the tumultuous events that led to the fall of Afghanistan's monarchy and the rise of the Taliban, Khaled Hosseini's The Kite Runner is one of the 21st century's bestselling novels - and the stage adaptation of the story is coming to Wolverhampton this month...

Khaled Hosseini's story of trauma, guilt and redemption follows central character Amir from his childhood into manhood.

It is Amir's relationship with his father, and his close but strained friendship with Hassan, that guides The Kite Runner's narrative, which in turn is influenced by ethnically charged violence and the need to seek asylum.

"The Kite Runner is a journey that pretty much spans Amir's entire life up until his present day in 2002," explains David Ahmad, who plays the character. "Amir recounts his life and the choices he made that got him to that point. One choice from his childhood in particular he feels incredibly guilty for, and so The Kite Runner becomes the story of his path to redemption. It's definitely an epic journey. Essentially, he's a child who makes a mistake, and I think that's something which most people can relate to. A lot of people, especially at the end of act one, really don't like Amir. As a child, he's not a particularly likeable character. But the more I've lived with Amir, the more forgiveness I have for his actions, as I feel like I've been with him for so long - since the play was first staged in 2013, to be exact. He's a coward, sure, but at the end of the day he's a child who makes some poor choices. He certainly tries to work through them in the end."

This particular adaptation of The Kite Runner sticks as closely as possible to Hosseini's groundbreaking novel.

"I have to say that the play is such a faithful adaptation of the book. Matthew Spangler did a wonderful job of really distilling the story into its key moments. Obviously there were lots of parts of the book that we simply couldn't fit in, but Matthew very cleverly picked out those essential moments to create the narrative arc of the play. People who've read the book don't often notice that we've left much out. It's a very successful adaptation - and very different to the film adaptation. I don't think the film worked particularly well. The play works much better because we've been able to keep the narrator character, where Amir relives parts of his life in front of the audience. That really helps create a better connection to the audience, as they go on the journey with Amir. It helps them feel part of the story."

Almost two decades after it was published, The Kite Runner's deep exploration of human relationships, and the wider political statements that the novel makes, continue to resonate.

"The Kite Runner is just as important today as when it was written. There are so many facets to the story, and that's why it's so well-loved. There's part of the story that everyone can relate to, in terms of the characters' own personal emotions and experiences and wider politics. The story definitely still resonates with the current situation in the Middle East - and with the refugee crisis in Syria, in particular. A lot of The Kite Runner is about being an immigrant; about adapting to leaving so much behind and being faced with a whole new culture; about which characters embrace the 'new ways' and which ones feel a little left behind, clinging to the old. Sadly, these are all very real dilemmas for some civilians in the Middle East, and they don't look like they're going away any time soon.

"Interestingly, on the first day of rehearsals, we all sat down as a cast and told our stories - and while not being exactly the same experiences as Amir and his father had, they certainly had some similarities. For example, my father came to the UK from Pakistan in the 1960s. We all live with those experiences of feeling slightly different. Having that understanding of what life was like for my father trying to make his way in a very alien country makes me relate to the story on a personal level also.

"But this isn't just a political story; it's a story about people finding love, about regret, about the betrayal of a friend and a father-son relationship. There are so many aspects for the audience to connect with, and that's what The Kite Runner does so well. The story is such a rollercoaster, and Hosseini certainly fits a lot of gut-punches in there! It's so emotional. Certainly, the immediate reaction to the show is often one of silence, while the audience digests what's just happened. The main thing, though, is that there's still hope!"

REVIEW: INFINITII

Sheer perfection at Staffordshire gem

Prestigious Indian street food eatery INFINITII is one of those restaurants that you'll find yourself still talking about months after paying a visit.

Located in the Staffordshire town of Abbots Bromley, INFINITII provides a modern twist on the textures and flavours of India, combining and celebrating diverse cooking techniques from multiple regions across the country.

The kitchen is fronted by award-winning chef Mamrej Khan, whose CV includes stints at the five-star Taj Hotels in Chennai, The Rose Garden in the Maldives and the Deluxe Palace Hotel in Bahrain.

On the evening my partner and I visited INFINITII, we sampled the five-course tasting menu - a chef's surprise. The restaurant showcases a unique concept whereby the menu is catered to the customer. Diners are asked three questions: do you have allergens or dietary requirements? Is there anything that you don't like? Is there anything on the menu which is a must-have for you? Your must-have choice(s) will be included within your specially designed menu.

We started off with a pint of Kingfisher and an INFINITII G&T Sweet Gin Cocktail, comprising Nelson's Rose & Raspberry Gin, juniper berries, cardamom and Fever Tree Aromatic Tonic.

INFINITII is in partnership with Nelson's, a Staffordshire-based distillery, so we felt it was only fitting to sample their creations. I'm not actually a big gin fan (bucking the trend, I know), but my selected drink was both refreshing and tasty. It may even have converted me, which is something I thought would never happen.

Our first course, light and crispy vadams - a modern but less oily alternative to poppadoms - were served with a homemade spiced tomato salsa and a fresh onion green salad.

They were swiftly followed by course number two - aloo brie tikki and kaffir lime lemon sole. A vegetarian dish (which can be made vegan by swapping the brie for a vegan cheese), the aloo brie tikki comprised spiced mashed potato cakes stuffed with gooey, melted brie and coated with cashew nut-flavoured breadcrumbs. The three potato cakes were served atop a sweet tamarind sauce alongside decorative swipes of vibrant rhubarb and honey and mustard sauces. The flavour combinations were simply stunning!

The fish dish featured a beautifully soft and delicate shallow fried lemon sole fillet marinated with ginger, garlic, curry leaf and paprika, served with mint lime olive oil - a healthier option which didn't compromise on flavour whatsoever.

We were seriously impressed - and beyond excited about what was to follow!

My partner's must-have choice was rabbit varuval - wild rabbit meat marinated with home-ground spices and served with green chutney. Presented on the bone, the sweet rabbit was cooked to perfection, the coating showcasing just the right amount of spice. The green chutney, bursting with mint and coriander flavours, was the perfect accompaniment.

I'm a sucker for a bit of food theatre and INFINITII's smoky lamb tikka dish provided just that. Served inside a smoke-filled dome, which was lifted at the table, sat marinated boneless morsels of cinnamon-smoked lamb fillet, grilled to perfection in the restaurant's clay oven. The smoky meat was served with roasted peppers & onion and accompanied by delicious green chutney and rhubarb sauce.

On to the main courses of duck lucknowi and machchi mango curry. The first of the two dishes featured seared barbery duck breast simmered in caramelised onion, tomato, yoghurt & cashew nut sauce. Bright orange in colour and sweet in flavour with its underlying hint of cashew, the sauce was absolutely phenomenal and definitely one of my highlights of the evening. The duck itself was cooked to absolute perfection.

The second dish featured soft pan-fried fillets of tilapia fish simmered in coconut milk, five-spice - a sweet & sour sauce of green mangoes - and served with a portion of nicely seasoned spiced potato. I adore a fish curry, and INFINITII's offering was up there with the nicest I've ever eaten. The perfectly cooked fish, the spicy, creamy sauce, and what is essentially Indian-inspired mashed potato, made for the comfort-food dish of my dreams.

To accompany the two dishes there was a portion of saffron rice, a portion of rice flour roti (a healthier alternative to naan) and one of the richest, creamiest and downright tastiest dal makhani I'd ever eaten. I genuinely couldn't fault a thing - the food was sheer perfection.

Our final dishes of the evening were the desserts: a sweet and refreshing mango sorbet supplied by award-winning dairy farm Daltons, and a rich cinnamon dark & white chocolate mousse served with caramelised golden syrup and decorative swirls of mango sauce. Both were beautiful in taste and presentation. Indeed, the presentation at INFINITII is second to none, and in my opinion of Michelin-star quality.

My partner and I sat looking at each other in utter disbelief. How had we just enjoyed so much outstanding food for a mere £30 each?! INFINITII's tasting menu is value for money and then some! Our debut experience at the restaurant really couldn't have been any better. The food was exemplary and the flavours exceptional, with every course also showcasing excellent technical ability. The service was fantastic, the staff being both friendly and knowledgeable. Not surprisingly, I can't wait to return to sample some more of the delicious cuisine this gem of a restaurant has to offer.

Chocolate-themed fun run returns to Sandwell Valley

A fun run with a tasty twist is coming to the Black Country on Saturday 18 April. The region's chocolate lovers are in for a sweet treat as Birmingham St Mary's Hospice's Chocolate 5k & 10k run returns to Sandwell Valley Country Park. The popular event will see participants picking up goodies from numerous chocolate stations as they make their way around the course. All funds raised from the run will go towards the hospice, which provides vital care and support to people living with life-limiting illnesses across Sandwell and Birmingham. Laura Nash, events manager at Birmingham St Mary's Hospice, said: "Whether you're into running or you just love chocolate, the Chocolate 5k & 10k is a great family-friendly event which allows you to enjoy tasty treats whilst you burn off the calories."

Dishoom Birmingham launch delayed due to coronavirus

Dishoom Birmingham was intending to open its doors this month but is delaying doing so due to the coronavirus outbreak. Paying loving homage to the old Irani cafés that were once part of the fabric of life in Bombay, Dishoom brings together food cooked in Hindu, Muslim, Irani and Parsi traditions. The restaurant is located at the heart of Birmingham, at One Chamberlain Square, and can accommodate 330 guests. For more details, visit the website dishoom.com

Opera Boys Theatre Severn, Shrewsbury, Sun 5 April

Crossover artists have been big business for much of the 21st century, so there's little wonder that The Opera Boys continue to enjoy such a successful career. Their classically trained voices combine in a powerhouse of vocal harmony to deliver a winning blend of opera, pop and everything in between.

They visit Shrewsbury to perform a concert of songs from the shows - from timeless classics like Les Miserables, Phantom Of The Opera and West Side Story, to modern smash-hits such as Jersey Boys, We Will Rock You and The Greatest Showman

Carducci Quartet

STOP Cafe Bar, Shrewsbury Museum, Thurs 23 April

Performing more than 90 international concerts each year, Carducci are regarded as one of the most successful string quartets in the business. Their Shrewsbury 'chill-out concert' comprises an informal programme of relaxing 20th & 21st century works by composers including Philip Glass, Peter Gregson, Joby Talbot and Arvo Part.

Sakari Oramo & Royal Stockholm Philharmonic

Symphony Hall, Birmingham, Sat 25 April

A one-time music director of the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra, Sakari Oramo returns to his old stomping ground with the orchestra for whom he's been chief conductor since leaving the CBSO in 2008. The Royal Stockholm Philharmonic last performed in Birmingham some 29 years ago. They are joined for this long-overdue return to the city by violinist Nicola Benedetti.

The evening's programme features Victoria Borisova-Ollas' Open Ground, Benedetti performing Prokofiev's second concerto, and Sibelius's Symphony No.2.

Russell Watson

Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, Sun 5 April

Often referred to as 'the people's tenor', Russell Watson's soaring voice has garnered him a vast global army of appreciative fans.

The 53-year-old's debut album, The Voice, topped the classical charts and saw him become the first British artist to hold both the US and UK classical number-one slots. He plays Wolverhampton in celebration of the album's 20th anniversary.

Featured songs include Caruso, O Sole Mio, Il Gladiatore, Nessun Dorma, You Are So Beautiful, Someone To Remember Me and Where My Heart Will Take Me.

Ex Cathedra: St John Passion

Symphony Hall, Birmingham, Fri 10 April

A favourite at Eastertide, Bach's moving retelling of Christ's betrayal and death is one of classical music's most profound experiences. Sung in German with English surtitles, St John Passion is here performed by the Ex Cathedra Choir under the direction of its founder and conductor, Jeffrey Skidmore (pictured).

Beardyman

Albert's Shed Southwater, Telford,
Thurs 30 April

Championed by the likes of Tim Minchin and Jack Black, Darren Alexander Foreman - or Beardyman, as he's better known - is an award-winning multi-instrumentalist, a groundbreaking live looping pioneer, a musical comedic talent and one of the world's best beatboxers. He's also a man who's collaborated with Fatboy Slim and Calvin Harris to produce a global phenomenon - the song Eat Sleep Rave Repeat - and whose popularity at festivals has seen him spend much of the last decade touring the world. He visits Telford with his Sheer Volume: The Initial Phase tour.

The Academic

The Sugarmill, Stoke-on-Trent, Wed 22 April

Ireland's newest indie-rock sensations have come a long way since performing Battle of the Bands competitions at their local school. Comprising Craig Fitzgerald, Dean Gavin and brothers Matt and Stephen Murtagh, The Academic have accumulated a long list of sold-out headline shows, appeared at some of Europe's most high-profile festivals and performed opening slots for acts including The Strokes, Twenty One Pilots and Catfish And The Bottlemen. The future looks bright.

Calan

Newhampton Arts Centre, Wolverhampton,
Sat 25 April

Calan have certainly found their musical niche, showcasing a unique instrumental blend of accordion, fiddle, guitar, Welsh pipes, Welsh harp and the percussive sound of the Welsh clogs. Taking a contemporary approach by breathing new life into old traditions, they were voted best band at the inaugural Wales Folk Awards in 2019 and best international band at France's Lorient Festival. Expect a fast-paced and uplifting show from this fresh and vibrant five-piece.

Tankus The Henge

The Robin, Bilston, Thur 2 April

Tankus The Henge have been described as 'a psychedelic rock & roll octopus... only with four more legs.' Widely admired both for their songwriting and their live performances, the cult band's wildly eclectic funk-fuelled repertoire ranges from New Orleans-inspired swing to heavy rock riffs.

Dean Friedman

Henry Tudor House, Shrewsbury,
Thurs 23 April

Back by popular demand after his last sell-out show, Dean Friedman here presents another evening of infectious pop songs. The American singer-songwriter first came to prominence thanks to the chart success of hit single Ariel, a quirkily irresistible song about a free-spirited, pot-smoking, vegetarian Jewish girl in a peasant blouse who lived, as the lyric goes, "...way on the other side of the Hudson".

Wilko Johnson

Theatre Severn, Shrewsbury, Sat 25 April

Following a remarkable recovery from a diagnosis of terminal cancer, original Dr Feelgood guitarist Wilko Johnson has recently released Blow Your Mind, his first album of new material in decades. Famed for his blistering chop-chord strumming action, the 72-year-old formed the Wilko Johnson Band with Blockheads bassist Norman Watt-Roy, following a stint with Ian Dury & The Blockheads in the 1980s. Featuring former Blockhead Dylan Howe on drums, the trio is considered to be one of the most exciting R&B bands in the world today.

Comedy previews from around the region

Tom Rosenthal

Stafford Gatehouse Theatre, Mon 6 April; Midlands Arts Centre, Birmingham, Wed 8 April

An Edinburgh Fringe hit last summer, Tom Rosenthal's Manhood (the show, that is, not his penis) provides opportunities enough to enjoy a chuckle - providing you're okay with the subject of circumcision and enjoy a good dick joke or several.

Plebs and Friday Night Dinner star Tom was circumcised as an infant and clearly isn't happy about it. Sure, it's a tradition in many cultures, he acknowledges, but then so was witch-burning and slavery. Sports fans in the audience may be interested to know that Tom is the son of television presenter Jim Rosenthal, one of the broadcasters on whom Steve Coogan's Alan Partridge character was originally based.

John Shuttleworth

Huntingdon Hall, Worcester, Sat 18 April; Stratford Playhouse, Stratford-upon-Avon, Fri 24 April; New Vic Theatre, Newcastle-under-Lyme, Sat 25 April

Midlands-based lovers of light comedy here get the chance to enjoy another laughter-filled evening in the company of Sheffield's raconteur par excellence.

The creation of actor Graham Fellows - a one-time chartbuster with 1970s' hit, Jilted John - Shuttleworth has been making his presence felt on the UK comedy circuit for more than 30 years.

This latest show finds John a pale shadow of his former self. Years of strenuous DIY - not to mention playing his organ while perched on a multi-pack of Diet Sprite with no lumber support - has taken its toll...

Expect classic songs, new stories, and the unmistakably pungent whiff of Deep Heat ointment...

Andrew Maxwell

Artrix, Bromsgrove, Thurs 30 April; The Old Rep, Fri 22 May

Dublin-born funnyman and I'm A Celebrity star Andrew Maxwell has garnered a reputation for writing quality material at breakneck speed, to ensure he's always across the most topical and talked-about issues.

"I'll re-use material as long as it's still relevant," says Andrew, "but you have to keep challenging yourself."

And Andrew certainly does that. Previous gigs have included a maximum security prison in Dublin, the UDA on Shankill Road, the IRA on the Falls Road, and an illegal gay rave in the Middle East.

"If my first reaction to the prospect of doing a show is one of raw terror, I know I'm on the right path. I'm always open to a new experience, however scary!"

Jack Barry

Birmingham Rep, Sat 25 April

Having previously provided tour support for James Acaster and Joe Lycett, Jack Barry here steps out on his own for a show that sees him addressing the fact that he doesn't think you've been laughing enough.

No surprise there, says Jack, what with the world having turned to s.

Jack's show is called Alien - by which he means the immigrant kind - and being a pot-smoking old hippie at heart, he'd be happy to do away with borders altogether. His timely message about acceptance will no doubt resonate with many in The Rep's audience, his line in humour with even more.

Joel Dommett

Palace Theatre, Redditch, Wed 8 April; William Aston Hall, Wrexham, Sat 18 April; Theatre Severn, Shrewsbury, Sun 19 April; Evesham Arts Centre, Sat 2 May; Stafford Gatehouse Theatre, Thurs 28 May

"I absolutely love performing in small, intimate spaces," says The Masked Singer presenter Joel Dommett, a man who was once the face of MTV - until he was sacked at the age of 27 for being 'too old'. "I'd far rather do a small gig in front of 50 people, but be doing new stuff, than do old stuff in front of 5,000 people."

Joel is extremely committed to the business of keeping his act fresh. "I'm working on material pretty much all the time," explains the one-time Justin Bieber warm-up act. "In fact, I try to put in something new every time I go on stage. If there's something new in there, it brightens up the whole set and gives it more energy and excitement."

Seann Walsh

Rose Theatre, Tewkesbury, Fri 3 April;
Old Rep Theatre, Birmingham, Fri 24 April

Seann Walsh is such a popular comic he could even give Real Madrid a run for their money when it comes to the acquisition of silverware. An award-winning star of television shows such as Mock The Week, the somewhat dishevelled comedian has been likened to the legendary Billy Connolly in terms of his gift for storytelling (although others have labelled him the new Dylan Moran, so take your pick).

His jokes aren't bad either, with two examples being as follows: "I don't understand swimming. You don't see fish going for a walk," and "Are city-centre beat officers police who rap?"

Sukh Ojla

The Slade Rooms, Wolverhampton, Sat 25 April; Belgrade Theatre, Coventry, Sat 9 May; The Glee Club, Birmingham, Thurs 25 June

"Life Sukhs is about moving back in with your parents at a time when all your mates are buying houses and having babies," explains Sukh Ojla, in talking about her currently touring show. "It's about finding yourself crying into a cheese & onion pasty at Rochester train station on a Tuesday afternoon, living a double life, mental health and identity. In short, it's a searingly honest look at what happens when life doesn't go to plan."

An actor whose CV includes Judi Dench movie Victoria And Abdul, dystopian TV series Black Mirror and BBC soap opera EastEnders, Sukh is comparatively new to stand-up, presenting her first full-length show at the Edinburgh Fringe last summer.

Chris Ramsey

Dudley Town Hall, Fri 3 April; Theatre Severn, Shrewsbury, Sat 4 April; Royal Spa Centre, Leamington Spa, Sun 5 April; The Alexandra, Birmingham, Fri 17 April; Dudley Town Hall, Sat 17 October; Symphony Hall, Birmingham, Sun 22 November

As well as being a highly rated stand-up, Geordie boy Chris has developed an impressive telly career, appearing on shows including 8 Out Of 10 Cats and Strictly Come Dancing (reaching the semi-finals in 2019). He's scored a big hit in the podcast world, too; he and his wife, singer & actress Rosie

Winter, co-host *Sh*gged*. Married. Annoyed. Chris' gags include: "My venue for the Edinburgh Festival is a portacabin; it's literally a portacabin! I'm a Geordie, in a portacabin. I was going to call the show Auf Wiedersehen Pet Live."

Rhod Gilbert

Royal Spa Centre, Leamington Spa, Sat 4 April; Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, Mon 6 April; Warwick Arts Centre, Sat 6 June; William Aston Hall, Wrexham, Fri 19 June

Welsh funnyman Rhod Gilbert has acquired a huge and still-growing following thanks to a high-energy brand of grumpiness that marks him out as one of the top comedians of his generation.

With several sell-out UK tours to his name, the multi-award winner is this month returning to the Midlands with brand new show The Book Of John - seven long years after he last went on tour.

Rhod's best-loved gags include: "In the Bible, God made it rain for 40 days and 40 nights. That's a pretty good summer for Wales," and "A spa hotel? It's like a normal hotel, only in reception there's a picture of a pebble."

A MESSAGE OF HOPE

Message In A Bottle is a new dance-theatre storytelling spectacular about refugees, humanity and hope. The production takes to the stage in Birmingham this month...

Determined and daring, three siblings parted by violence step out on their own extraordinary adventures...

Directed and choreographed by triple Olivier Award nominee and Birmingham Hippodrome Associate Kate Prince, Message In A Bottle has been astounding audiences in the West End. The piece is inspired by the iconic hits of 17-time Grammy Award-winning artist Sting.

"The production follows a family in a village as they're displaced due to war," explains associate choreographer and star of the show Lukas McFarlane. "It specifically focuses on three siblings in the family and their unique journeys and experiences of being refugees. It documents their attempts to find family, love and hope again in a new home."

Included among the Sting hits featured in Message In A Bottle are Roxanne, Every Breath You Take, Walking On The Moon, Fields Of Gold, Englishman In New York and Shape Of My Heart.

"What Sting speaks about in his music - subjects like politics and the world climate - is still really relevant today, even when you listen to his earlier works," says Lukas. "So many of his songs still ring true! Being a massive fan of his, Kate felt like his songs and lyrics would lay really beautifully on a story about refugees."

"Message In A Bottle is definitely more like a ballet in terms of the fact that there's no dialogue - the story is told through dance, movement and music alone. Dance is a universal language - the emotion and energy behind it can be understood across all languages and cultures - so that's really interesting when you compare it to a story about people who are forced to leave their home and adjust to a new environment."

Having won Sky One's hit TV show, Got To Dance, at just 19 years of age, Lukas is fast becoming a well-known and widely respected artist.

He has worked as a creative and choreographer on The X-Factor, The Voice and Strictly Come Dancing, and with artists including Taylor Swift and Celine Dion.

"In Message In A Bottle, I play the eldest brother. You get to see his attempts to find his version of family love after his own family is divided. Then, as associate choreographer, I worked with Kate on creating the dance. It's a wonderful hybrid of breaking and hip-hop styles, as well as contemporary. Kate has a massive background in hip-hop styles, but not necessarily contemporary, so I came in to make a contribution with that. I've helped Kate create this story through that hybrid movement."

"Working with her has been a gift - and that's putting it mildly! I've been such a massive fan of hers for so long, so when she reached out to me and said she was also a fan of mine, it was so humbling. I couldn't have asked for a better person to learn from in this realm, especially as I come from a TV commercial background, working with artists and in the music industry but with my training being in theatre."

"I'm so, so grateful to have had the opportunity to work with someone who is not only amazing at what she does, but who is also so kind and who cares so much about the stories she's telling and the company of dancers telling it. Kate is a very compassionate director and choreographer, and I feel very lucky to have worked with her."

"The biggest thing I've learnt from her is the power of storytelling; how even the tiniest, most minimalistic movement can contribute so much to an emotion or narrative. The beauty of theatre is that you're creating something which the audience can feel so palpably because it's right in front of them. That's very different to what I'm used to doing, with an audience watching something captured via a lens."

"Theatre is just so much more alive, and feeling the audience's energy back from you is an incredible feeling."

"I'm the director of my own company - UnTitled Dance - and have self-produced three shows of my own, but to have worked in the West End is such a dream. Hopefully, with the knowledge I've gained and the experience of working with people like Kate, Sadler's Wells and Universal Music UK, doors will be opened for me to produce my own work on a larger scale. I'm a creative first and foremost - that's what I love doing."

Message In A Bottle will tug on your heartstrings, says Lukas: "The biggest thing we've tried to get across in the show is that hope and love prevail over everything else. While it's a really emotional story, we hope the audience is left with a sense of hope - a feeling that a sense of belonging can be created anywhere, and not necessarily just by blood either. Acceptance of who you are, no matter what your background is, can definitely be found."

"I'm obviously a little biased, but I honestly believe there's nothing else that's similar to what we've created. Message In A Bottle is so unique in that it is, essentially, a ballet, but from a more commercial narrative, about dance being the language of youth. It also tells such an emotional story. I promise that you will be left with lasting memories if you come to see it, whether what sticks in your mind is the incredible physicality of the dancers, the lighting, set & costume design, Sting's amazing music, or the actual story itself."

Message In A Bottle shows at Birmingham Hippodrome on Wednesday 8 & Thursday 9 April.

We Will Rock You

Birmingham Hippodrome, Mon 20 April - Sat 2 May; Regent Theatre, Stoke-on-Trent, Mon 25 - Sat 30 May

A pulsating homage to the music of Queen, We Will Rock You may be short on storyline, but it's got bags of energy - and just about as brilliant a soundtrack as any musical's ever likely to have. The show's frontline performers give it their all to excellent effect, while the sets and choreography ensure a visual spectacle to remember. For those who care about the plot, the story is set in a future where originality has been quashed, musical instruments banned, and a hero is needed to bring back rock music...

Yes, it's all a bit contrived, but how else are you going to glue together all of Queen's greatest hits in a single show?

A fantastic evening's entertainment for fans of Freddie & Co, so catch it while you can...

Dial M For Murder

The Alexandra, Birmingham, Mon 20 - Sat 25 April; Theatre Severn, Shrewsbury, Tues 9 - Sat 13 June; Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, Tues 14 - Sat 18 July

Samantha Womack and Tom Chambers star in Frederick Knott's erotic tale of betrayal, passion and murder - best known, of course, from its 1954 Alfred Hitchcock-directed film version starring Ray Milland and Grace Kelly. When Tony becomes convinced that wife Margot is having an affair, he devises a means of having her murdered while at the same time ensuring he has a watertight alibi. But not everything goes according to plan...

Oliver Twist

The REP, Birmingham, 29 April - 9 May

This brand new version of the classic Charles Dickens story has been adapted for the stage by Bryony Lavery, the creative force behind previous Birmingham Rep favourites Treasure Island, The Lovely Bones and Frozen.

Telling the terrific tale of a young boy whose escape from the workhouse kickstarts a dangerous adventure in the twisted streets of old London town, the production is presented by Ramps On The Moon - a consortium of seven major theatres committed to putting D/deaf and disabled artists and audiences at the centre of its work.

Priscilla Queen Of The Desert

Birmingham Hippodrome, Mon 13 - Sat 18 April

Based on the movie of the same name, Priscilla the stage show has wowed both West End and Broadway audiences, picking up a coveted Olivier and an equally prestigious Tony Award along the accolade-strewn way. At its heart is an uplifting story of the friendship shared by three pals, who hop aboard a battered old bus and head off across Australia in search of love and romance.

The hit show comes complete with a dazzling array of costumes and a glorious selection of dancefloor favourites. Former Strictly winner Joe McFadden takes the lead role of Tick.

Some Mothers Do 'Ave 'Em

Regent Theatre, Stoke-on-Trent, Tues 14 - Sat 18 April; The Alexandra, Birmingham, Tues 19 - Sat 23 May

Joe Pasquale makes a welcome return to the stage as the accident-prone Frank Spencer, the character created and made famous by Michael Crawford in the classic 1970s' sitcom bearing the same title. "I don't do it as Michael's Frank Spencer, though," says Joe. "That would be an insult to Michael. I'm putting my own personality into it. "Frank isn't childish; he believes in what he's doing. The relationship between him and his wife, Betty, is a love story. He might always mess up, but she loves him anyway. For it to work, she has to; otherwise he'd just be an idiot." Joe is joined by Sarah Earnshaw as the long-suffering Betty and Susie Blake as Frank's disapproving mother-in-law, Mrs Fisher.

Confessions Of A Cockney Temple Dancer

The REP, Birmingham, Tues 21 - Sat 25 April

Taking a journey from the temple rituals of India to the bad-boy streets of London, Shane Shambhu's bilingual solo work is a contemplation on both his own life and the experience of performing Indian dance in the UK. "I draw on my experience from differing artistic roles and practices," explains Shane. "In doing so, I unearth new creative pathways that challenge perceptions of performance and cultural identities."

Up Pompeii

Prince of Wales Theatre, Cannock, Wed 22 & Thurs 23 April

Following a vote by Ambient Nights' dedicated audience, Up Pompeii was selected as the show with which to celebrate the theatre company's 10th anniversary. For those not in the know, the production is based on a late-1960s BBC sitcom in which comedian Frankie Howerd starred as a slave in pre-eruption Pompeii - a place, it turns out, where risqué gags and double entendres were very much the order of the day...

Jew...ish

The Old Joint Stock Theatre, Birmingham, Fri 3 & Sat 4 April

Starting out as a TV pilot, Jew...ish is described by its two stars as 'a pitch-black romantic comedy'. While it's questionable whether the show ever manages to get all that dark, let alone 'pitch-black', it definitely does hit the mark as a romcom. Focusing on the on-off intercultural relationship of TJ and Max, the story plays out against the colourful backdrop of Jewish family life and the trials & tribulations of the millennial generation.

Chaplin: Birth Of A Tramp

The Old Rep Theatre, Birmingham, Wed 15 April

Charlie Chaplin's stellar Hollywood career was all the more remarkable given that his childhood had been spent in abject poverty. The son of an alcoholic father and a mother who would eventually succumb to psychosis, he was brought up in a late-19th century London slum and twice sent to the workhouse before the age of nine... The critically acclaimed Arrows & Traps are the company behind this psychological exploration of the silent-movie eras's biggest, brightest and perhaps most surprising star.

The Delightful Sausage: Ginster's Paradise

Midlands Arts Centre, Birmingham, Thurs 23 April

Surreal northern double-act Amy Gledhill and Christopher-Louise Cantrill are the top talent behind this production, a show which the pair describe as 'a comedy nightmare that'll tear your soul apart'... No ordinary night out at the theatre, then! The show finds the duo working as new 'salmon coats' at holiday camp Ginsters, a venue that offers hard-grafting Yorkshire folk the opportunity to kick back, relax and forget about the stresses and strains of everyday life. But can Amy and Chris keep their campers entertained, obedient and medicated?...

Volpone

Belgrade Theatre, Coventry,
Thurs 16 - Sat 18 April

One of the greatest of all Jacobean plays, Volpone is a stylish example of playwright Ben Johnson at his very best.

Although the titular character seems to be on his last legs, he is, in truth, setting a trap for those about him who covet his fortune, not least among whom is his 'faithful' manservant Mosca...

African Caribbean ensemble Tangle present this centuries-old satire, a work of theatre which ably illustrates that some things, including man's propensity for avaricious and lustful behaviour, will never change.

Friends! The Musical Parody

Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, Tues 14 April;
Regent Theatre, Stoke-on-Trent, Tue 5 May;
Prince Of Wales Theatre, Cannock, Thurs 24
September; Swan Theatre, Worcester, Fri 16
October

If it's not broken, don't turn it into a stage musical, would surely have been the advice that millions of Friends fans would've given the creative team who set out to make this show. So it's probably a good thing that those millions of fans were never actually canvassed for their opinion, because by all accounts Friends! The Musical Parody makes for a thoroughly enjoyable night out at the theatre.

Lovingly lampooning the hit TV sitcom from the 1990s, the show is a good-hearted romp through the series' most memorable moments, but with the addition of some high-energy song & dance routines. What's not to like?...

Amsterdam

Warwick Arts Centre, Coventry, Mon 27 - Wed
29 April; The REP, Birmingham, Tues 12 - Sat
16 May

Maya Arad Yasur's play begins in the modern day, when a nine-months-pregnant Jewish violinist living in a plush Amsterdam apartment finds an unpaid gas bill for 1,700 euros pushed under her door. Not only is the bill not owed by her, it is also dated 1944 - decades before the violinist was even born and a year during which Amsterdam was still under Nazi occupation...

Billed as a 'strikingly original, audacious thriller', Amsterdam explores issues around the topical subjects of collective identity, foreignness and alienation, reconstructing horrific stories of the Holocaust in an admirably heartfelt attempt to make some sense of present-day political discourse.

Lemons Lemons Lemons Lemons Lemons

Albany Theatre, Coventry,
Wed 29 & Thurs 30 April

When the government passes a law allowing each individual to speak a maximum of only 140 words per day, Bernadette and Oliver find themselves battling hard to negotiate the choppy waters of their relationship... Sam Steiner's dystopian drama has met with mixed reviews since debuting a couple of years back, but there's no denying it has plenty to say about the modern world and the importance of language. As Steiner himself observes: "Freedom of speech is all well and good, but it doesn't matter if we're not listening to each other."

By The Waters Of Liverpool

Malvern Theatres, Tues 14 & Wed 15 April

Helen Forrester's autobiographical play, from her same-titled bestselling book, is set in the 1930s and finds the teenage Helen fighting a bitter battle with her parents for the right to educate herself and go out to work.

Life, however, has a habit of getting in the way of even the best-laid plans - and so it proves for Helen...

Following her family's fall from grace, she finds herself taken from school to work as an 'unpaid slave' looking after her siblings. But with Britain on the brink of war, the arrival in her life of a tall, strong seaman provides Helen with the chink of light for which she's been desperately searching...

I, Elizabeth

Bridge House Theatre, Warwick, Thurs 2 April;
Stafford Gatehouse Theatre, Thurs 7 & Fri 8
May

Dyad Productions, who are also touring The Unremarkable Death Of Marilyn Monroe to Midlands venues this spring, are the company behind this revealing study of the Virgin Queen. Written and performed by Rebecca Vaughan, the show is directed by Guy Masterson, whose homage to comedian Eric Morecambe won the Olivier Award for Best Entertainment in 2010.

Blood Brothers

Lichfield Garrick, Tues 7 - Sat 11 April

If you're one of the comparatively few theatre-goers who hasn't yet caught up with Willy Russell's hit show, Blood Brothers, then here's a perfect opportunity to do so.

The story of twins separated at birth who're brought up in different social circumstances but remain inextricably linked, Blood Brothers isn't so much a musical as a play with music.

Former New Seeker Lyn Paul takes the lead role of Mrs Johnstone, with highlights including memorable songs A Bright New Day, Marilyn Monroe and the emotionally charged Tell Me It's Not True.

Beach Body Ready

Arena Theatre, Wolverhampton, Sat 25 April;
Brewhouse Arts Centre, Burton-upon-Trent,
Thurs 11 June

Hull-based theatre company The Roaring Girls have built their reputation around creating work that is fierce, feminist and fun - and latest offering Beach Body Ready is no exception. Created in the ensemble's semi-improvised style, the show 'sticks two fingers up' at everything the media says about how women should look.

"Summer has rocked up and coerced us all into thinking about how awful our bodies are," say the Girls. "Expect an evening of impassioned rants, cheesy fitness routines, informal chats and a beach trip on film, accompanied by a banging soundtrack."

The Comedy Of Errors

Royal Shakespeare Theatre, Stratford-upon-Avon, Sat 25 April - Sat 3 October

Comedian Miles Jupp stars as Antipholus of Syracuse in this brand new Royal Shakespeare Company production of one of the bard's most popular offerings.

Shakespeare's forerunner to modern farce, Comedy is a superbly crafted catalogue of mistaken identity, adulterous liaisons and slapstick humour.

Two sets of identical twins are separated during infancy. When their paths cross again later in life, all manner of confusions ensue. Matters are then further complicated by the involvement of an irate courtesan, an insistent jeweller and a mad exorcist!

Quality Street

New Vic Theatre, Newcastle-under-Lyme,
Tues 28 April - Sat 9 May

JM Barrie is best known, of course, as the creator of Peter Pan, but years before he ventured to Neverland, he penned a farce so popular that it gave its name to one of the UK's most famous brands of chocolate. When Captain Valentine returns from fighting Napoleon, he's disappointed to find Phoebe Throssel somewhat less glamorous than he remembers her. But Phoebe has a plan to rekindle his interest, courtesy of her younger alter-ego, the wild and sparkling Miss Livvy... Presented by the ever-impressive Northern Broadsides.

Girls Just Wanna Have Fun

Stafford Gatehouse Theatre, Fri 10 & Sat 11 April; Brierley Hill Civic Hall, Wed 22 April; Lichfield Garrick, Sun 24 May; Malvern Theatres, Thurs 28 May; The Albany, Coventry, Thurs 11 June; The Place, Telford, Fri 12 June

Linda Nolan and X-Factor finalist Niki Evans are two of the four women enjoying an evening of fun and frivolity in this brand new musical comedy.

Described as a no-holds-barred romp through everything life throws at a modern-day woman, the show is unlikely to pull up any trees when it comes to originality. That said, having previously helmed Hormonal Housewives, its producers absolutely know the market they're playing to and are old hands at giving their audience a fantastic night out.

So if you fancy channelling your inner diva for a couple of hours, you know what you need to do...

Horrible Histories: The Worst Of Barmy Britain

Palace Theatre, Redditch, Sat 11 April; Stratford Playhouse, Stratford-upon-Avon, Sun 26 April; Stafford Gatehouse Theatre, Wed 27 May

If you love the Horrible Histories series - and why the heck wouldn't you?! - then Barmy Britain is a show well worth catching. Alongside providing answers to such searching questions as 'what would happen if a Viking moved in next door?' and 'will you see eye to eye with Admiral Nelson?', the show also invites audiences to roar with laughter with Richard the Lionheart, light up their life with the great fire of London and find out if the Duke of Wellington gets the boot. In short, and as its publicity says, it's 'a truly horrible history of Britain - with all the nasty bits left in!'

Shark In The Park!

Worcester Swan Theatre, Sun 5 April; Artrix, Bromsgrove, Mon 6 April; Old Rep Theatre, Birmingham, Tues 14 April; Rose Theatre, Tewkesbury, Wed 15 April

Nick Sharratt has illustrated over 250 books, around one-fifth of which have been by Tracy Beaker author Jacqueline Wilson. One of Nick's own is the hugely successful Shark In The Park!, a children's story about a young lad named Timothy who goes to his local park to try out his new telescope. While there, he thinks he spots a shark - and not just on one occasion either, but several times in several places! The popularity of the book prompted Sharratt to write and illustrate two follow-ups - Shark In The Dark! and Shark In The Park On A Windy Day!. All three stories are featured in this highly rated stage show.

Oi Frog & Friends!

Birmingham Town Hall, Fri 10 - Mon 13 April; Lichfield Garrick, Sat 13 - Sun 14 June

Fifty-five minutes of frog-focused fun is the name of the game when this lively stage adaptation of Kes Gray and Jim Field's bestselling series of picture books stops off in Birmingham. Expect 'songs, puppets, laughs and more rhymes than you can shake a chime at', as a new day at Sittingbottom school dawns...

The Tiger Who Came To Tea

Warwick Arts Centre, Coventry, Thurs 9 - Sun 12 April; Lichfield Garrick, Tues 21 & Wed 22 April

Following on from a hugely successful West End season, the tea-guzzling tiger once again drops in on Sophie and her mum just as they're settling down for an afternoon cuppa...

Adapted by David Wood from the late Judith Kerr's 1968 book, this 55-minute show comes without an interval, features singalong songs and boasts plenty of magic - not to mention a big stripy tiger, of course!

that this latest production is well worth catching. Peppa Pig is heading out on a road trip with George, Mummy Pig and Daddy Pig, and there are plenty of adventures waiting to be had - including ones that involve dragons, dinosaurs, ice-creams and muddy puddles...

Billionaire Boy

Belgrade Theatre, Coventry, Wed 22 - Sat 25 April; Theatre Severn, Shrewsbury Thurs 14 - Sun 17 May; Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, Wed 23 - Sun 27 September

Birmingham Stage Company has impressive form when it comes to adaptations of David Walliams' work, so anybody wondering whether or not to check out this show should definitely grasp the nettle. For those unfamiliar with the book, it tells the tale of how Mr Spud made and lost his billions, and how his son, Joe, became the richest boy in the world.

Peppa Pig's Best Day Ever

Belgrade Theatre, Coventry, Tues 7 - Thurs 9 April; Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, Sat 18 & Sun 19 April; Palace Theatre, Redditch, Wed 24 & Thurs 25 June; The Place, Telford, Wed 16 & Thurs 17 September

If you've taken your little ones to any of the previous Peppa Pig stage shows - and enjoyed the experience of watching them having a fantastic time - you'll already know

Balletboyz: Deluxe

Theatre Severn, Shrewsbury, Thurs 9 April;
Warwick Arts Centre, Coventry, Wed 13 May

Fresh and inventive, the all-male Balletboyz company combine muscle with grace to present a distinctive style which fuses energetic dance with music and film.

This year celebrating their 20th anniversary, the company has performed their work more than 400 times around the UK and in 13 countries across the world, with more than 350,000 people having seen at least one of their productions.

The ensemble this month return to the Midlands with a brand new show that features work by some of the world's most innovative choreographers.

"Deluxe is going to be a night of entertaining and thought-provoking theatre that's been 20 years in the making," say Balletboyz Artistic Directors Michael Nunn and William Trevitt. "The beauty of our job has always been about finding and pursuing extraordinary talent and sharing that with as many people as we can. It really is that simple."

Lewys Holt: Phrases & Footnotes

Arena Theatre, Wolverhampton, Thurs 23 April

"While focusing on and loving dance," says Lewys Holt, "my practice also tends to include things that look more like stand-up comedy, storytelling or acting. The two shows I'm performing in Wolverhampton, Phrases and Footnotes, are solo contemporary dance works that fuse text, humour and improvisation. They are a subtle exploration of our innate need for connection and fear of loneliness."

BalletLorent: The Lost Happy Endings

Warwick Arts Centre, Coventry, Fri 24 & Sat 25 April

Joanna Lumley narrates this family-friendly show, performed by award-winning dance-theatre ensemble BalletLorent.

A story by the former Poet Laureate, Dame Carol Ann Duffy, The Lost Happy Endings tells the tale of a forest-dwelling girl who, charged with guarding the happy endings to stories and fairytales, finds herself having to rewrite them after they're stolen by a wicked witch...

The Lost Happy Endings is the latest in BalletLorent's line of innovative family shows featuring diverse casts.

The Newcastle-upon-Tyne company was set up 27 years ago by choreographer Liv Lorent.

"I liked the magic, the mystery and the fairytale aspects of classical ballet very much," says Liv, "but what I wasn't so keen on was the amount of men in tights and crowns, or the strange mime gestures that were used to communicate narrative. "What I wanted more than anything was to perform work that would mean audiences came out of the theatre feeling differently to when they'd gone in. Like when you go to see a great movie."

Bollywood Divas Birmingham Hippodrome, Sat 4 April

The leading ladies of Indian cinema - or Bollywood, as it's otherwise known - are the subject of this special tribute show by trend-setting choreographer, designer and singer Shiamak Davar - a man whose CV includes choreographing the dance sequences for the 2011 Tom Cruise movie, Mission: Impossible - Ghost Protocol. Shiamak has scored hits with previous shows Spirit Of India and Spirit Of Bollywood, so is well-versed in mounting glitzy productions boasting stunning visuals and breathtaking choreography. "The stage has always felt like home," says Shiamak, who is known as 'the guru of contemporary dance' in India. "Getting an instant response from a live audience is a real rush - a completely different feeling from cinema. There's something magical about creating movements using the entire stage, using sets and props. As such, the stage will always be my first love."

Yhonnie Scarce

Ikon Gallery, Birmingham,
Thurs 9 April - Sun 3 May

"Some people don't like my work; they find it too confronting," says Australian Aboriginal glassblowing artist Yhonnie Scarce. "But if you don't want to engage in this conversation, then the solution is simple - don't look at my art. But that doesn't mean it will go away."

Yhonnie, whose work explores the political nature and aesthetic qualities of glass, is undertaking a five-week residency at Ikon before presenting a new work in the venue's Tower Room.

"To define the strength of our culture, it may seem strange to use glass," she says, "but it's not as fragile as most people would think. Glass can be very strong, and in that way it reflects the resilience of our people. It is a creation that has been witness to our journey, and one that still continues today."

Cornwall As Crucible

Barber Institute, University of Birmingham, until Sun 17 May

This hugely popular exhibition takes as its inspiration the Barber's recently acquired Constructivist sculpture - Russian artist Naum Gabo's Linear Construction In Space No1. Cornwall As Crucible considers the relationships and networks that existed between artists who lived and worked in the county (and most particularly in St Ives) during the mid-20th century.

Featuring works by, among others, Barbara Hepworth, Ben Nicholson, Peter Lanyon and Sandra Blow, the installation examines the artists' development of a visual language that explored the boundary between representation and abstraction.

The show also investigates the impact which the distinctive Cornish landscape had on the work of the artists residing in the region.

Made At MAC: Painting

Midlands Arts Centre, Birmingham, Sat 25 April - Mon 31 August

Professional artist-tutor Helen Tarr's autumn 2019 project, The Scottish Colourists; Creating Impact With Colour, provided the inspiration for the paintings on display in this exhibition. Helen teaches Practical Visual Enquiry & Art In Context at Midlands Arts Centre, using her lessons to demystify the technical skills of painting and drawing.

Her Scottish Colourists project has seen her students immersing themselves in an artistic exploration of colour, line and form across the genres of landscape, portrait and still-life.

Victoria & Albert: Our Lives In Watercolour

Wolverhampton Art Gallery, until Sunday 31 May

Capturing the pomp and spectacle of the British court, the exploration and shaping of a modern nation, and a sense of the close-knit family at the centre of it all, Victoria & Albert: Our Lives In Watercolour is a touring exhibition from the Royal Collection. Throughout their marriage, Queen Victoria and Prince Albert were enthusiastic patrons and practitioners of the art of watercolour painting. They built up a collection of thousands of artworks and often spent happy evenings together organising their acquisitions into albums...

The exhibition is touring to mark the bicentenary of the births of both Victoria and Albert.

Cranach: Artist And Innovator

Compton Verney Art Gallery, Worcestershire, until Sun 4 June

Lucas Cranach the Elder may be best known in modern times for his seductive paintings of the female nude, but back in his day - some 500 years ago - it was his paintings of German nobility and the leaders of the Protestant Reformation for which he was most admired.

This exhibition of work by one of the most successful German artists of all time features paintings and illustrations on loan from the National Gallery, the Royal Collection, the British Museum and Waddesdon Manor.

The show also reflects on the enduring appeal of Cranach, whose work has been admired by a range of modern and contemporary artists, including Pablo Picasso.

Tartuffe

The REP, Birmingham, Fri 20 March - Sat 4 Apr

Transferring the action of Moliere's famous comedy from the 17th century to 21st-century Birmingham, Anil Gupta and Richard Pinto - the writing team who've updated the play - have made the title character a Muslim cleric and turned the full glare of their spotlight on the contemporary British Muslim experience. Consistently funny and blessed with a vitality that wouldn't have been possible without the modern-day makeover, Tartuffe is alive with contemporary references, hugely and joyously accessible, cleverly punctuated by humorous interaction with the audience and chock-a-block with engaging performances.
